"The Black Crook" will be once more revived at the Academy of Music Monday night. It will be presented by a company that has not yet been seen in this city—the organization that recently schieved so much success in Chicago. There will be new scenery, new ballets and new specialities. Among these last will be Dagmar and De Celle, who will appear in the third act. Rehearsais have been going on for some weeks very vigorously.

The regular Fall and Winter season of the People's Theatre begins tonight with a production of "The Phoenix" a play by Milton Nobles, in which the author plays the leading role. The People's Theatre, it is clatimed, has been completely renovated, and the interior is said to look much brighter than before. "The Phoenix" was next presented in this city in February, 1873, and is said to have introduced that very popular phrase known as "And the villain still pursued her."

The variety programme at the Madison Square Roof Garden next week will include Kitty Wells, in her drum major drill and songs; Edwina, the graceful dancer; Miss Elsie Adair, who will introduce some new steps and light effects; Kara, the clever juggler; Rose and Martin Julian, the contertionists; Horace Randall, whose songs are as funny as ever; Lawlor, Katle Rooney, Prank Lawton, and that entertaining couple, Ossman and Glynn.

The Columbus Theatre throws open its doors for the season to-night, when George R. Sims's always popular melodrama "The Romany Ryo," will be presented. The cast will include Frank Losee, in the character of Jack Hearne, and Miss Marion Elmore as the heroine. The play is an excellent one of its kind, full of human interest. It was written before melodrama had deteriorated into a sort of peg, upon which to hang mechanical tricks, known as "seenic accessories."

State, and especially those of the metropolis, have been interested during is week in the tournaments held at the Hotel St. George, St. George, S. I., under the auspices of the State Chess Assoirrs of the Asociation have been very occessful, and the meeting held this ear was no exception. Noted chess players from all over the State have come to watch the play of the cham-pions, while even the great international pions, while even the great international players, such as Steinitz, Lasker and Lipschutz, thought it worth their while to look at the piny of the others.

As was announced in "The Evening World" yesterday, A. B. Hodges, the champion of the Manhattan and Staten Island chess clubs, secured the Staats-Zeitung's cup for the Staten Island club without losing a solitary game. There is no question that Hodges is about the strongest players of the metropolis. It was Hodges who checked Lasker's victorious career at the Manhattan Chess Club by giving that renowned player his first defeat in this country.

tropolis. It was Hodges who checked Lasker's victorious career at the Manhattan Chess Club by giving that renowned player his first defeat in this country.

Among many other victories Hodges has achieved the following:

1890-He won the annual handicap of the New York State Chess Association.

1891-Tied for first prize with Hanham in the annual championship tournament of the Manhattan Chess Club.

1892-He won the championship of the New York Chess Association, he beat Delmar it a set match by five to nothing to do not the Manhattan Chess Club Handicap hy winning twenty-seven games, driwing two and losing none.

practice and made a very poor show indeed.

Major Hanham, a player of great strength, was also out of form, and therefore greatly disappointed his many admirers, while Halpern, of the City Chess Club, played too carelessiy, a circumstance which fully explains his failures. Oily, on the other hand, descrives to be greatly complimented on his fine play in many of his games.

The feature of the handicap was the remarkable cleverness shown by these lyoung players—Helms, Ferre and Karpinski. The latter, a boy of fifteen years, performed a rare feat by winning his section without losing a game. Frere, one year his senior, played in the first class, and won three games, losing only one, while Helms accomplished the feat of winning five games straight. This is a wonderful record for so young a player.
